Wool and Woolen Factories

Among the most important productions of our State to-day may be accounted wool—both raw and manufactured From the data at our command, it would be difficult to determine the precise time when the raising of sheep was commenced, as a matter of profit, by the settlers of Oregon outside of the Hudson Bay Company It is fair to presume however, that wool was not here generally regarded as a staple productive of advantageous returns until about 1856, when a spirit of enterprise possessed the far-seeing few who discussed the probable results of a speculation in that line.

In 1857, Mr. L E Pratt, having previously acquired experience by erecting two similar mills in the East, arrived from Massachusetts with the machinery for the woolen factory at Salem, which has since acquired a reputation, creditable alike to its management and the State For the first thirty months after the commencement of operations, owing to a lack of public confidence in the experiment, and the difficulty in finding a market for their manufactured goods, the company were several times on the point of relinquishing their business, in the hope of at least saving a little of the fortunes then regarded as about wrecked in an unsuccessful experiment The cash receipts of the concern were a mere drop in the bucket of expenditure, 2 per cent was a running on from $10 000 to $50,000, and paying twice a year, the credit of the company was about gone in the neighborhood Mr Pratt, who had charge of the business, even went so far as to keep a family boarding house for the hands employed, most of whom were willing to receive for their surplus wages the notes of the concern To show the low ebb of the company's credit at that critical period, it may not be amiss to mention that one of the present and most extensive stock proprietors was then called upon for some medicines for a workman's sick wife, and when the company's note was tendered as security for payment it was tossed back to the man with the remark by the store keeper that he would not give 50 cents on the dollar for it During these dark months, by dint of trading with farmers for raw wool some 100,000 pounds were accumulated, which, in the absence of ready means to convert it into cloth, they were constrained to dispose of at San Francisco for $16,000 The same lot subsequently lost at the East for double that amount By the accession and use of the $16,000, the business received a new impetus, its credit was repaired and from that time forward it has steadily increased until, instead of lacking either relations here, Oregon manufactures legislation holds a commanding place in the wool market, and its prosperity has induced the establishment of a second factory of woolen goods at Brownsville Nor are these sufficient A company has been organized at Oregon City, and the erection of a large establishment commenced, to derive its working power from the celebrated Willamette Falls—an ample volume of water being conducted thence through a flume When completed, this factory will run ten sets of machinery, and execute work at least equal to that of the Salem Mills Mr Pratt, from whom we derived some interesting items upon this subject, left by the steamer Pacific Monday evening, to procure from the Old Bay State the machinery of the projected mill, at an estimated cost of $20,000, and expects to have it ready for use on next year's crop of wool

A fair idea of the present importance of this branch of our home industry may be had from the following statement of moneys invested The value of mill property, at Salem and Brownsville, is at least $150,000, the value of wool raised during the past year, as near as can be estimated in the absence of uniform care on the part of county statisticians, is $250,000, value of sheep, estimated at $750,000, making a total valuation, according to the best authorities, of $1,150,000 invested in the growth and manufacture of wool in Oregon

The present capacity of machinery for wool manufacturing purposes in Oregon is equal to 450,000 pounds—the Willamette Mill at Salem using 300,000, and the Brownsville Mill 150,000 pounds The capacity of the Oregon City Mills will equal that at Salem, thus giving a promise for next year of manufacturing in this State, 750,000 pounds, or three hundred and seventy five tons, of wool

The only county in the State which has been carefully examined for statistics upon this subject is Douglas, containing 80,000 sheep, estimating the clip at four pounds per fleece—and it is believed that they will average four and one half pounds—we have three hundred and twenty thousand pounds of wool as one year's product of a single county At a low figure, 20 cents per pound, here is one source of income amounting to $64 000 among a population numbering 3,204 It is not claimed that Douglas county is superior to any other in this State for the raising of sheep, and we have, therefore, a right to suppose that when the subject is better understood among our well-to-do farmers, more close attention will be given to it and the quantity of wool largely increased The existence of wild mountain sheep throughout the State is conclusive evidence that our climate is peculiarly adapted to the growth of the domestic varieties We have reason to infer that by judicious management the finest qualities of wool must form a large staple of export, from the fact that experienced furriers have pronounced the furs taken in Oregon equal if not superior to any others in the world Owing to the present prices of cotton goods, and the absence of large stocks of the raw material as a result of the war, wool must to a great extent take its place, and supply the demand for all descriptions of fabrics in which it may be used as a substitute The prospect of an increased tariff on imported woolen manufactures is another incentive to enterprise in this direction by our farmers, and investments in fine wool and heavy fleece sheep will never be regretted In fact, the average quality of wool raised here at present is so fine as to render it necessary to import for use in the manufacture of blankets and other coarse goods.

The first shipment of wool from Oregon directly East was to Boston, when 90,000 lbs brought 56 cents, in legal tender notes, per pound At the latest accounts it was worth in gold 21@22c, with a prospect of advance

There has seldom been so good an opportunity to procure sheep at low rates in California as now The drouth in some portions of that State is so extreme as to make some prompt disposition of the sheep a matter of necessity. Thousands can be purchased at from 75 cents to $1 per head, and some choice breeds at $2 We have it upon the authority of a gentleman whose business enables him to form a correct opinion, that the average export of sheep from Oregon for consumption in the British Provinces on the North, is not less than one thousand head per month, and probably much greater

Notwithstanding the intelligent application of capital in woolen manufactures, our sheep raisers need a better system for the culture, care and disposition of their wool crops We understand that farmers, large and small, directly and indirectly, and mostly in exchange for goods of home consumption, take into Salem between three and four hundred thousand pounds of wool per annum While we do not assume that they can not thus dispose of their stocks to advantage, we believe it would be for the best interests of all concerned to recognize the importance of the trade they are aiding to build up, and make themselves familiar with the experience each of the other, as well as of books upon the subject, that they may increase the weight and improve the texture of their wool, and cleanse and treat it to the end of enhancing its market value

Upon the return of Mr Pratt and the starting of the Oregon City Mill, if our people are alive to their best interests, the wool growing and manufacturing interests of our State will represent a round $2,000,000

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING AT DES CHUTES.—We are informed by Mr John Beck, who arrived on the Hunt last evening, that a man named W. Mace, teamster between the Dalles and Canyon City, was accidentally killed on Tuesday morning, under the following circumstances He and his partner, named Wilkinson, arrived at the Des Chutes, on Monday night, and as usual slept together, placing their clothes under their pillow. In the morning Mace, in drawing out his coat from under his partner's head, accidently discharged a pistol, the ball from which entered his (Mac's) head causing almost instant death. A coroner's inquest was held over the remains, and a verdict returned in accordance with the above facts

From the little newspaper published daily at the Fair lately held in New York, we cut the following:

[We have received from the Rev J F Thompson, and handed over to the "Old Curiosity Shop" the One Dollar "Greenback" described in the following communication.]

A BAPTISM FOR THE DEAD

Among the relics of the war upon exhibition in the Fair is a mutilated dollar bill which has this touching story. A pastor in an inland town had called upon his congregation to contribute to the Sanitary Commission, and had met a liberal response. The next day a woman who depends upon her daily work for her own support and that of her children, brought him a dollar bill to be added as her mite to the collection Her pastor declined to take it, telling her she ought not to give so much, but the woman insisted adding, "We've had it in the house many weeks, we cannot spend it."

Seeing that the bill was much torn, and supposing that she had found difficulty in passing it, her pastor said "Oh, I'll give you a good one for it."

"No, that's not it. It was in brother Sam's pocket when he was wounded He is dead now, and we have his torn pocket book, and mother said (the mother is a widow, and he was her only son,) we will give that dollar to the Sanitary Commission, we cannot spend it."

The pastor redeemed the bill for $2 and now sends it to be disposed of at the Fair Fifty dollars have already been offered for it, but we feel sure that this gift of two widows, of a bill marked relic of their son and brother, will yield to the soldier's treasure an hundred fold. No necessity could have compelled them to spend it, but the cause consecrated it as a holy baptism.

A SOLDIER MURDERER'S REMORSE.—During the battle of Olustee, Florida, Jerome Dupoy, of Company D, Seventh Connecticut Volunteers, was shot in the back of the head and killed, evidently by some one in our own ranks, and suspicion fell upon a substitute for a drafted man, who had had a quarrel with Dupoy and been stabbed by him Sergeant Bross charged Rowley with the crime, when he confessed it, and is reported to have made the following statement

"Well, Sergeant, I did kill Dupoy, he stabbed me on St. Helena; I swore to it if I got a chance, I'd kill him; I had one at Olustee and I killed him Nor is he the only man that I have killed or caused to die I cut out the entrails of a sailor on a gunboat, since the war begun, and I killed, by stabbing, a man in New York, which caused me to leave my family and go as a substitute for a drafted man last Fall. But the ghost of Dupoy is the only one that ever troubled me Since the battle, I have dreaded the nights, for they are horrible nights. When on picket, I always see Dupoy stand a little way in front, his face all blood, and the bullet hole in his fore head At night, when in my dreams, he stands at the entrance I awake, he is there pale and bloody, but vanishes as soon as I see him I could not keep this horrible crime a secret any longer"

He was of course arrested and will be punished by death. It is said that both men were very bad ones

MUDSILLS.—Before the outbreak of the present war, when open hostilities were unknown, the grandees of the South could find no more bitter reproach for the mechanics of the North than the term "mudsills" Senseless as the appellative was to intelligent men, it served to show the estimation in which traitors held labor and those who live by it, and was expressive of their utter scorn

A just retribution has fallen upon those traitors to their country, for through the want of those despised "mudsills" their railroads are to ruins, their factories, such as they have, short-handed, and only worked by "Northern men with Southern principles," and their steamers, for all offensive purposes, useless Though the fields of the South at this moment require all the cultivation that can be bestowed upon them, there are none but slaves to plant the crops or to reap them if they were sown. The North is equally short handed, but when men disappear from the homestead or the factory, dumb assistants supply their place, and the crops are not only gathered in cheaply, but are, or might be, increased in quantity by the employment of the useful agricultural machines which are now in market

All other callings and trades are equally prosperous at the North and only in the war ridden South is the voice of labor hushed in the field, the hum of the factory replaced by solitude and ruin The Southern journals such as still exist, are full of the demands for "mudsills," they lament bitterly the loss of machine shops and foundries, and are in consolation in being debarred the privilege of certain manufacturing towns which have recently been wrested from them in Georgia and Mississippi. It is, of course the products of labor that they miss solgreatly, but these products are the fruits of the skill and ingenuity of Northern "mudsills," whom they once derided, but now mourn and refuse to be comforted therefor.

Let them take this question to their souls—One day the Southern factories, mills and machine shops shall be busy again, and a peaceful and smiling land acknowledge with gratitude the bench at which "mudsills" confer upon them—San Francisco American

The Boston Traveler says that Gen Hallock, as General in Chief has done some things that were very difficult Prentice says "Pity some of them had not been impossible"

JEFF DAVIS A MISCEGENATIONIST.—The following extract of a letter from a United States officer, whose veracity is vouched for, was communicated to the Boston Journal by its Washington correspondent Perley

Whilst at Vicksburg I resided opposite to a house belonging to a mulatto man who once belonged to Joe Davis a brother of Jeff. Learning this, I had cured one day to think that he, perhaps, would know the truth of a story told in the London Times that there was a son of Jeff Davis in our navy the mother of whom was a slave woman The next time I met the man I asked him if he had ever known Maria, who had belonged to Jeff Davis and was the mother of some of his children? He replied that he had not known Maria, but, that he knew Massa Joe Davis's Eliza who was the mother of some of Massa Jeff's children I then inquired if she had a son in the navy He replied that she had—he knew him well, and that they called him purser Davis He said that Eliza was down the river some thirty-five miles, at work on a plantation

The next day, as I was walking down street, I met the man, who was driving his mule team and he stopped to tell me that Eliza had returned A few moments afterward he came back, and pointing to one of two women who came along, he said that she was the one of whom we had been talking When she came up I stopped her, and inquired whether she had not a son who would like to go North She replied yes and added that she would like to go too I told her that I only wanted the lad She said that her son had gone up the Red River on board the Carondelet, but that when he returned she would be pleased to have him go "Well said I some say that Jeff Davis is your son's father—do you suppose it's so?" "Suppose!" she exclaimed with offended pride, 'I see no right to suppose what I know am so Massa Jeff was the father of five of my children, but they are all dead but that boy, and then I had two that he wasn't the father of There's no suppose about it"

FURNISHED DRESSES.—The fashion of having embroidery on cloaks, ladies' dresses, and in fact, garments of almost every description, is rapidly on the increase in this country—imported, as are other fashions from Paris Fortunately for the ladies, the crisis has not caught them unprepared, and left them with no other means of ornamenting their articles of dress but the tedious and tiresome one by hand There is at least one of our popular sewing machines (Grover & Baker's) which is adapted to both sewing and embroidery—the latter as well and as rapidly as it sews the plainest sewing.—New York Evangelist.

COMPROMISED.—The difference about navigation on the Cowlitz river has been finally settled by compromise, and the two steamers, Express and Rescue, have retired from business The usual results of such opposition has followed in this case.

THE TELEGRAPH LINE.—The Operator at this point informed us that the telegraph was in such bad working order last evening that messages could not be read in Yreka, and it was not known whether the overland line was up or not CERTAIN DEATH —There is a fine opportunity now afforded for completely routing those troublesome vermin, rats. The remedy is simple, efficacious, and free from the dangers attending poison—consisting a lethal of two ingredients, sheep's lights and plaster paris. The lights are first boiled, then mixed with the plaster, cold, and chopped to any desired fineness. If placed within reach of the vermin it should be so secreted as to avoid fowls, or other domestic animals from obtaining any of it for we are assured from persons who have tried the remedy that it is certain death. We are not posted in regard to whom we are indebted for the model recipe, but understand there is a negro sweep in the city who holds himself in readiness to purge premises by contract.

A FAITHFUL DOG —Judge Strong, of this city has a faithful dog at least whether there be another one within the limits or not. The merit of this canine's watchfulness was severely tested on front of the Court House, on Tuesday, when the Judge had left his horse and carriage while attending Court. The dog had taken his position under a bench at the outer edge of the side walk, near the Lieutenant's post, and a waggish set of fellows would raise a question upon the age of the horse when some uninitiated person would step up to decide the matter by a look at the animal's teeth, and the dog would instantly seize the intruder, amid the roaring mirth of the crowd. The consternation of the biter and the latter is better imagined than described.

TAXIDERMITY —Taxidermity is a science, and when skilfully applied to the practical uses of dressing beasts and birds is a very pleasing art. We were gratified in looking at a handsome case of birds yesterday, prepared by Mr. Douglas, who has quietly been engaged in the work for some time past in this city, producing several excellent specimens of the most delicate birds than are known to exist about Oregon, as well as a variety of the more ferocious of wild beasts, many of which are found their way to the East, and are on exhibition in New York, and other cities.

CIRCUIT COURT —The following causes were disposed of yesterday. Sherlock & Bacon vs. A W Hart, verdict and judgment for the plaintiffs of $770 31. W T Wilcox vs R M Thompson, decree in favor of plaintiff. Ladd & Tilton vs Watts & Bonnett, judgment for plaintiff. Houghton vs Doscher, judgment for possession of real property and $180 damages. Jurors were out in the cause of Goodnough vs Baker, at 5 o'clock P M, when Court adjourned to meet this morning.

STENOGRAPHY —About a dozen boxes were laid up on Couch's wharf yesterday, that presented a queer style of orthography. One of them was supposed to contain glass, and must no doubt be treated with the utmost precaution by steamboat men and packers, on account to Boycee, as it was labelled with large Roman characters, slightly out of proportion however. "Handel with Ceare—Somebody said the freight belonged to Josh Billings.

HEAD STONE —Stone cutters are employed at the foot of Ash street, on the river bank, in hewing blocks of hard stone, into the right shape for building purposes. This stone is something between a granite and sand stone, of a brownish color, and is much sought for its symmetry and durability as caps and sills for doors and windows. The quarry out of which it came is some fourteen miles distant from the city, on Clackamas river, and teams are employed to haul it.

DEAD HEADS —The steamer Wilson G Hunt brought some twenty aborigines from the Cascades yesterday. We understand it was a funeral party, as they had two boxes in charge, each containing a dead Indian, on their way to the Clackamas for final deposit. One of them had been accidentally shot some time since, but the tribe were too busy fishing for Salmon to perform the burial rites in accordance with their custom.

THE EXAMINATION at the Academy yesterday consisted of classes in reading, grammar, geography, arithmetic, algebra, French and Latin. The examinations were creditable to the teachers and pupils. Classes will be examined in the higher branches of mathematics, Latin and English grammar, to-day. The friends of education will find it profitable to attend these examinations.

UNDERPINNING —The foundation of Cohn & Lyon's store, on Front street, was receiving a few touches of masonry yesterday, by way of strengthening it. This building was constructed ten years since, and has one "new wall," consisting of planking placed under the foundation for additional support to the walls, which has now to be removed, as they have completely decayed.

PAPERS —Chas Barrett last night received a fine supply of newspapers magazines, American and European pictorials, per overland mail, for abundant samples of which he has to thanks. Barrett's counters are fairly groaning under the weight of profitable reading matter.

OVERWHELMED —The difference about navigation on the Cowlitz river has been finally settled by compromise, and the two steamers, Express and Rescue have retired from business. The usual results of such opposition has followed in this case.

THE TELEGRAPH LINE —The Operator at this point informed us that the telegraph was in such bad working order last evening that messages could not be read in Yreka, and it was not known whether the overland line was up or not.

A MISS AGREE —A tent was pitched in the vacant block near the Express Office yesterday where Prof. Poole & Co. will exhibit a collection of wild animals this afternoon. Their museum is composed of animals and reptiles chiefly abounding on the Pacific coast.

SALE OF LOTS —The city lots sold at auction yesterday were purchased at $600 for the corner one, by Capt VanBergen, and $400 each for two adjoining ones, by Amory Holbrook, Esq.

THE bark Samuel Merritt will take her departure to-day in tow of the steamer John H Couch, for Oak Point, where a load of lumber for San Francisco will be taken on board.

FRANKLIN BOOK STORE —S J McCormick has evening laid upon our table a supply of choice reading matter, from the stock received at his fashionable store through the mail.

THE CONCERT LAST NIGHT —The majority of traveling entertainments are mere shows, and what I only to please the uneducated ear are contemptible. Their singing—if they have any—is all monotony, and neither by its manner of delivery gives any real taste to the words, or by its execution has any merit as a musical performance. Barbara Allen, as rendered by the Christy Minstrels, was worn threadbare and thrown on the shelf years before Americans discovered the flashy ballad upon which it was conferred, and the words are chewed and strained through the teeth, as practiced by negro singers. Contrasted with these opportunities, the sweetly simple and touching melodies of Mr. Hayward's voice and all the rich refinements and thrilling pathos of the great songs not fitted for ladies' parlors, were a great success. The songs are new and of a high literary character. The sentiments are pure, elevating and refreshing. The words are all spoken with the most artistic and distinct elocutionary effect and the wit, pathos, humorous songs, are by pure and sparkling as the best champagne. The concert of these gentlemen, though exceedingly pleasant to all, are doubly so to people of education, refinement and superior intelligence. The sweet plaintive, the gentle purity of Mr. Hayward's voice and artistic style, move the more sensitive portion of the audience to tears, while Dodge's humor, dressed in words chaste, and pungent, compels everybody to laugh. We hope they will soon return to give another equally great treat and crowded audience.

THE OREGON SALT WORKS —Captain Dodge advertises the receipt of a large supply of Liverpool salt, in the original packages, at his establishment in this city. This arrival, when taken in connection with the lots of his own manufacture, comprise a varied assortment to select from. The Oregon Salt Works are enumerated among the most important of our manufacturing establishments, and when in active operation form quite a novel attraction. The mills, evaporators, etc., attached to the concern, enable the proprietor to produce an excellent article of almost any desired grade.

THE proposals for the erection of the new Engine House for Company No 3, will be opened to-day and the contract let.

Be In every age of the World, the professions have been slow to admit the value of new discoveries or the expediency of adopting them in practice. It is not to the legal profession that we look for reforms in jurisprudence, neither do we find the advocates of medical reform among physicians. Each deprecates whatever is old and to him unfamiliar upon received opinions and established usage. Here is the opposition which medical men too often exhibit to the use of private remedies, whatever their acknowledged value, or great efficiency in the cure of disease. No medicine has ever done more for the relief of human suffering than Dr Osgood's India Cholagogue. The certainty with which it cures Fever and Ague and eradicates bile from the system, is acknowledged by all.

Be particular to enquire for Dr Osgood's India Cholagogue and take no other. Sold everywhere.

Dr Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—The operation of this palatable remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties, and it is recommended to mothers, enfeebled by the care and duties of maternity, as the safest and best to use they can probably use. In all the crisis of female life it will be found eminently useful, and elderly persons will derive much more benefit from it than from ordinary stimulants.—Sold by all Druggists and Dealers everywhere. ap26 IIm

Loss of Appetite—In persons of sedentary and literary habits the liver is often worked and the mischief begins when the digestive system is very apt to fail from a general atony of the system. The PERUVIAN SYRUP rectifies the tone of the digestive system and consequently the appetite by supplying a pure blood to organs too weak to make it without assistance.

SORE THROAT, COUGHS, COLD,

The Circassians and Russians.

It is probable that the Circassians have struck their last blow for independence. Defeated and dispirited, they are withdrawing to the friendly soil of Turkey, after a final reverse which our latest advices represent as crushing and terrible. The tidings received by the last steamer show that the chiefs and foreign officers had escaped to Trebizonde, that the people were swarming to the coast, endeavoring to treat with the Russian authorities for the means of reaching Turkey, and that the Ottoman Government had sent five steamers to convey the refugees to Samsoun, Sinope and Varna. The Levant Herald, of Constantinople, of April 13th, thus describes the final struggle:

"On the first of the present month, from which there seems no rational hope that they can ever recover, a Russian force of 12,000 men having taken possession of Touapze, a bay in the Circassian coast, advancing along the sea shore about four hours march, in order to penetrated by the valley of Ouyia into the fastnesses of the mountaineers. The Circassians, with a well-sustained fire, bravely resisted, and after enduring heavy losses, the Russians, seeing the impossibility of carrying the position in front endeavoured to turn it by effecting a passage through a valley which the mountaineers had deemed wholly out of reach. This dextrous manœuver was crowned with success. The Circassians, surrounded and driven in on all sides, were forced to give way and abandon their strongholds to their aggressors. The losses were heavy on both sides. The Russians had 1,500 men hors de combat, including two superior officers, and the losses of the Circassians amounted to about 2,000 men.

"This last blow has crushed the Circassian struggle. The unhappy Ubykhs, disheartened by such an accumulation of suffering, and seeing no hope looming in the future of a termination to a merciless war, which should have interested many a Power as deeply, and even more deeply than themselves, have closed the unequal contest, have swarmed down to the seashore, and are now endeavoring to treat with the Russian authorities for the purpose of emigrating to Turkish soil. All the foreign officers and artillerymen who were aiding them sought refuge at Trebizonde, with whatever cannon and munitions of war they contrived to snatch from the wreck.

"Nousret Pasha, who has for time past had practical charge of the general subject of immigration, entertains hopes, we believe, of establishing some fifty thousand of these Circassian families throughout Roumelia and Bosnia. Whether he has any well-devised plans for accomplishing these results, we do not know, and we fear that the prospect is somewhat vague and indistinct. However, be this as it may, before these people can be settled in whatever manner, they must be, in the first instance, got away. The small coasters that have been hitherto the means of bringing them to Turkish territory, have, we understand, on sanitary grounds, been prevented from repairing to the Circassian coast, As it is essential to remove these unhappy people we are glad to hear that the Porte, backed by the support and influence of our Embassy, and the representatives of the other Powers has entered into negotiation with the Russian Steam Navagation Company to convey the Circassians to various situations on Turkish territory. This negotiation, we understand, is likely to terminate in consonance with the wishes of the Imperial Government. The relief must come quickly. Thousands of the Circassians are, so to speak, festering on the coast, seething with disease and decimated by starvation. Humanity appeals to us loudly for their succor."

A Relic from Putnam's Wolf-Den.—In the possession of Major Horace Goodwin, of this city, is the identical historical torch that Israel Putnam used in his descent into the wolf's den in Pomfret. It was presented to Major G., with other relics of the old hero, on the occasion of the visit to Brooklyn, William County, in June, 1860, of the "Putnam Phalanx," of which he was the commander. The person who presented it was an old gentleman of between 60 and 70, who assured Major G. that he himself found it, some fifty years before, at a spot to which he had crawl ed in the cave beyond any point (as he believed) ever visited by anybody else except "Old Put" himself. The torch is of birch bark, closely rolled in a cylindrical form, and is partly burnt at one end. Its charred condition still shows the point at which, according to the historical account, the bold farmer's "light was extinguished" when he dropped it in the cave, in the immediate neighborhood of the glaring wolf. It seems to be really the identical "torch" of Old Put—what there is left of it—for numerous shreds that have been cut off and given to curious friends have left in length but a small part of the original torch.—Hartford Times.

Curious Detection.—Not long ago there occurred in Prussia, one of those cases of detection of crime by scientific means, which interest a large and intelligent class of readers. A quantity of gold packed in boxes, was dispatched by a railway train. On arrival at its destination, it was discovered that the gold had been stolen from some of the boxes, which were refilled with sand to make up for the deficient weight. Measures were, at once taken for the discovery of the thief, and that no chance might be lost, Professor Ehrenberg was requested to make a microphic examination of the sand. The Professor (who is a member of the Academy of Sciences at Berlin, well known for his researches into minute objects, and his comparison of volcanic dust from all parts of the world,) asked that a quantity of sand from every station by which the train had passed, should be sent to him. Examining these one after another, he at last came to a sand which was identical with that found in the gold boxes. The name of the station whence this sand had been collected, was known, inquiries were set on foot at that station, and among the persons there employed, the thief was detected. The incident is one which an expert novel writer might make use of with effect.

A few years ago, a physician of George town, West Indies, examined the body of a man that had been discovered under a heap of cane-trash, or the fibrous residue of the canes, and found that the body emitted no smell, and was dried up like a mummy. He did not at the time proclaim his discovery, but immediately instituted experiments on dead animals, which completely confirmed his observation. Convinced thereby that by the fermentation of fresh cane trash a disinfecting and antiseptic gas was evolved, he immediately turned his attention to the means of employing the sugar-cane as a preservative against epidemics and contagious diseases, and as a medicinal plant generally. There happened to be at the time a great number of patients suffering from ulcers at the hospital, and a contagious gangrene had declared itself; the physician caused several tubs containing cane-trash to be placed in the wards, and the supply to be renewed at intervals. In a short time the atmosphere of the hospital was purified, and the contagion entirely ceased.

The Frightened War Chief.—Day before yesterday while Governor Nye and party, with young Winnemucca, were at Fort Churchill, there came on a storm of rain attended by thunder and lightning. The party was in the telegraph office a portion of the time during the prevalence of the storm. The air was full of electricity, which passing along the wires into the room snapped and crackled about the instrument so unpleasantly that Gamble, who was present, turned it off. The war chief was sitting near the ground wire, which entered the room at the window, hugging under his arm a new red blanket, presented him by Governor Nye. Gamble had asked him to move to some other part of the room, but as this particular spot appeared to best suit the chief he was allowed to remain. Suddenly, and most unexpectedly to the Indian, a pretty heavy charge of electricity leaped from the line wire to the ground wire, close to the side of the chief, giving out in quick succession two or three sharp reports. Quick as thought he bounded to his feet, and holding his new red blanket at arm's length, gazed upon it with his eyes starting from his head in terror, when he threw it as far as he could send it across the room. Nothing could convince him that the blanket had not attracted the lightning, and he could not be persuaded to touch it or go near it while the storm continued. Gamble tried to explain to him that it was the wire against which he had been leaning that attracted the stroke, but Winnemucca couldn't "see it," and stuck to his own notion of the matter, which was that the lightning was going after his red blanket. After the storm had somewhat subsided, and the fright of the war chief had passed away with the distant low, muttering thunder, he explained the reason of his being so much afraid of lightning. He said that long years ago many of his people were killed by lightning in a terrible storm that occurred, and the like of which had never since been seen. He said that it rained until nearly the whole face of the country was covered by water, that great rocks were broken to pieces and the face of the land much changed, and that the people could flee to no place where the lightning would not fall upon them and kill them.—Virginia Enterprise, June 3d.

A mild form of insanity, known as the Sanitary Fair mania, is prevalent in New York. A correspondent breathes forth in one of the papers his lamenis, because he has not seen his wife, who is suffering from this disease, in three weeks.

In the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon.
The Monticello and Cowlitz Landing Steamboat Company, libellant, vs. the Steamboat Senator.
WHEREAS, a libel has been filed in the District Court of the United States for this District of Oregon on the first day of June, A D 1864, by the Monticello and Cowlitz Landing Steamboat Company against the steamboat Senator, her tackle, apparel and furniture, alleging in substance that said libellants have a claim for damages against said steamboat Senator because of collision and maritime fault on Saturday, the 20th day of May, A. D. 1864, on the Willamette river, in the State of Oregon, while the steamboat Rescue, belonging to said libellants, was proceeding on a voyage from the port of Portland to the port of Oregon City on said Willamette river, she was with great force and violence run into and upon by the said steamboat Senator, thereby causing great injury and damage to the wheel, shaft and machinery of the said steamboat Rescue. That said collision was caused by the unskillful and improper management and the carelessness and negligence of the persons navigating the said steamboat Senator. And that in consequence of said collision and injuries to said steamboat Rescue libellants have sustained damages in the sum of two thousand dollars, and praying that the said steamboat Senator may be condemned and sold to pay the said sum of two thousand dollars damages. PERUVIAN SYRUP,
OR PROTECTED
Solution of Protoxide of Iron,
Has been used with Great Success in Curing
DYSPEPSIA,
Affections of the Liver, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Bronchitis and Consumptive Tendencies, Disordered State of the Blood, Female Complaints, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Scurvy, the prostrating effects of Lead or Mercury, GENERAL DEBILITY,
and all Diseases which require a
Tonic and Alterative Medicine.

THE PROOFS OF ITS EFFICACY are so numerous, so well authenticated and of such peculiar character, that sufferers cannot reasonably hesitate to receive the proffered aid.

The class of diseases for which the Syrup promises a cure, is precisely that which has so often baffled the highest order of medical skill. The facts are tangible, the witnesses accessible, and the safety and efficacy of the Syrup incontrovertible.

From well-known Citizens of Boston.

The undersigned having experienced the beneficial effects of the "Peruvian Syrup," do not hesitate to recommend it to the attention of the public.

Certificate of Dr. Hayes.

It is well known that the medicinal effect of Protoxide of Iron is lost by even a very brief exposure to air, and that to maintain a solution of Protoxide of Iron, without further oxidation, has been deemed impossible.

In the Peruvian Syrup, this desirable point is attained by COMBINATION IN A WAY BEFORE UNKNOWN; and this solution may replace all the proto carbonates, citrates and tartrates of the Materia Medica.—A. A. HAYES, M D, Assayer to the State of Massachusetts.

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY of modern chemistry, and it is impossible to overestimate its influence as a remedial agent. Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica, and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It is to act upon the

HEART,
LIVER, KIDNEYS,
DIGESTIVE ORGANS AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation, it remained almost useless, until Dr Mourlades, a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiments, discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve without a solvent. This, considered impossible by the scientific world, is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr. J. R. Chilton of this city, and Prof. Booth, U. S. Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals, and its use recommended to practitioners (see "American Medical Monthly," July 8, 1850, page 76.)

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER,

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, etc.

AS A TONIC

Its operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body in the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color; hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid.

Full directions accompany each bottle.

Sold by all Druggists. Price, 1 per bottle. Prepared by Dr E. Anders & Co, Philadelphia and Chamlets, New York.

HOSTETTER'S
STOMACH BITTERS,

THE OPERATION OF THIS PALATABLE REMEDY upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties.

Invigorate the System.

Vigorous digestion and pure bile produce nutritious blood, and nutritious blood a healthy frame. Does the victim of a dyspeptic stomach and a disordered liver desire to know how the digestion may be improved, the bile and other fluids of the body purified?

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

Will accomplish this desirable revolution in the system, regulating the secretions and excretions, giving tone to the animal juices which dissolve the food, strengthen every relaxed nerve, muscle and fibre, and brings the whole machinery of vitality into vigorous and healthful play.

Strengthen the System.

The best means of imparting vigor to the broken-down frame and shattered constitution, which has yet been invented or discovered, is proffered to the feeble of both sexes and all ages in

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Debility, from whatever cause arising, may be cured; strength, in whatever manner it may have been wasted, may be restored by the use of this powerful and healthy invigorant. For indigestion and all its painful effects, bodily and mental, they are a positive specific.

A word to the Aged.

In the decline of life the loss of vital force consequent upon physical decay can only be safely supplied by some vivifying preparation which recruits the strength and spirits, without entailing the exhaustion which is always the final effect of ordinary stimulants. We tender to the aged

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters,

A mild invigorant and restorative, immediate in its beneficial action and permanent in its effects. It tones the stomach, improves the appetite, and acts like a charm upon the spirits.

For Females.

Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility, and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which, as a sex, they are subject. It cheers and enlightens the depressed mental powers, as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any reaction.
